I called and discussed with Dan Cecchini on this and indicated that we are needing to do a deeper dive than anticipated between the field team, us at PIFWO and the Regional reviewers. We will therefore, unfortunately not make the 1 June turn around that we had been hoping for and had given you as our projected time. We anticipate the first of this discussion to happen next week and after that we are hopeful we can provide an updated timeframe. Very sorry for the inconvenience and I know, trust me, that you are under a lot of pressure and this further delay is not helpful on that. However it is to all of our benefit for the Service to do its due diligence on the draft before providing it to you.

I hope you all have a good Memorial Day weekend,
Best -
Mary

Mary,

I am just checking on the status of the BO. In your e-mail below that you expected to get the draft on the 25th (yesterday). Did you get the draft? Do you still anticipated that your office will be able to turn around any comments and get a final draft out to us by June 1?

Thank you.

Coralie

Dear Navy Folks -

I've talked with the Guam team and we have a timeline with a date certain for getting me a completed draft. I will get that draft on the 25th which I will be sharing with our Regional Office and I believe we should be able to turn around any comments and get a final draft out to you by 1 June barring any unforeseen circumstances. The Guam team also asked that you send any comments you have on the first 120 pages or so that was sent to you. One of the challenges for my team has been, without the benefit of a regular Biological Assessment, being 100% sure they have accurately reflected your information. Getting your feedback on that first chunk would allow them to correct any errors for the final draft. They did note that there might be references to the two species of most concern (the orchid and the butterfly) and those would obviously change based on the new information we received from you last week. So while you're waiting hopefully you can provide us your comments on that first part of the document to help move the whole process forward.

Thank you for your continued patience,

Mary

Turns out COB for me on Mondays doesn't reflect the normal COB, I just got back to my desk after an entire day of meetings and am trying to finalize the deadline (I seem to have a couple of versions) with the crew in Guam. I promise to send something prior to leaving my desk which for me is COB.

Sorry for the delay.

Best regards to all -

Mary

Mary,

Sorry if you have already responded to Capt Campbell directly but is the USFWS able to provide us with a timeline for completion of the BO? You had mentioned that your office should be able to respond by COB HST Monday 16 May.

Thank you.

Thank you Joe - appreciate the on-time response. I know Dave and Leilani will be happy to see this proposal. If there are questions it will come from the field, I don't have any at this time. Given the obligations of the field crew to attend the JRM-INRMP meetings, I cannot guarantee that I will be able to provide you with a timeline by Friday 13 May but should be able to by COB HST Monday 16 May.

Best -

Mary
